Accreditation Data System (ADS) Glossary

Glossary	Definitions
Academic Year	For this reporting period the current academic year is September 1, 2022-August 31, 2023 . Given that there are large variations from institution to institution with respect to academic year, there is some limited flexibility to define the academic year. If your institution has an academic year that is different from September 1-August 31, use your institution's academic year but be consistent from year to year for the purpose of ADS. For instance, if your academic year begins on August 1 and ends on July 31, you may count the candidates from August 1-July 31 toward the reporting year but do not duplicate these candidates in the next year's reporting period.
Admission	Calculate the admissions rate by dividing the number of applicants admitted by the total
Rate	number of applicants.
Admission	The minimum requirements that an applicant must meet in order to be considered
Requirements	eligible for admission to the institution and/or program.
Applicant	An individual who submits an application to an educator preparation program. The applicant may or may not be accepted to the program and may or may not enroll in the program.
Candidate	The individual enrolled in the educator preparation program leading to a license, credential, or authorization.
Clinical Practice	The experiences that a candidate has in schools. Clinical practice allows the candidate to apply theories and concepts they are learning about in coursework. The specific types of experiences a candidate needs to have during clinical practice are defined in the specific educator preparation program standards. The clinical practice experiences need to be designed by the educator preparation program, be supervised, completed in a logical sequence, and be integrated with the coursework the candidate completes.
Coach	For Clear Administrative Induction programs, the experienced school administrator who supports and guides the Preliminary Administrative Services credential holder during the two year Induction program.
Cooperating Teacher	The master teacher is the experienced teacher in who's classroom the preliminary candidate is placed for clinical practice and independent student teaching (See Master Teacher) and who models teaching practices for the candidate as well as helps and guides the candidate in learning to teach.
Counsel Out	The institution has asked the candidate to leave the educator preparation program. This is usually due to inadequate progress, professional fitness, or other egregious activity on the part of the candidate.
Dual Credential Program Enrollment -	A program designed to lead to two (or more) different credential/added authorization requirements. The candidates enrolled in the dual program are all earning both credentials/authorizations. Please note that candidates can be enrolled in more than one program which will lead to two credentials. However, only those programs that are specifically designed to lead to two or more credentials are considered dual programs.  Candidates who entered the educator preparation program in the prior reporting year.
Continuing	For reporting in 2020, these candidates would have enrolled in the program and begun classes or other activities prior to September 2019.

March 2023 1

Glossary	Definitions
Program	The manner in which the program is delivered to the candidates and program material is
Delivery	transferred to the candidate. For the purpose of ADS, these are either in person,
Method	online/distance learning or in combination delivery models.
Program Level	Undergraduate or Postgraduate programs are identified when the Program Report is created. Undergraduate programs are integrated programs that lead to a bachelor's degree program and a credential. Postgraduate programs have been typically referred to as "5 th Year" programs and are programs where enrolled candidates have already earned a bachelor's degree.
Program Pathway	Pathway describes how a candidate will complete the required field experiences, i.e.
	student teaching (including co-teaching and residency) or intern. At this time institutions are defining their own pathways within the options provided in the ADS.
Drogram	The educator employed and assigned by the Commission-approved educator
Program Supervisor	preparation program to supervise the candidate as he or she completes clinical practice.
	Other terms include University Supervisor.
Solo Teaching	See Independent Student Teaching
Student Teaching	A program pathway whereas a preliminary teacher credential candidate is assigned to a master teacher's classroom for observation, individual tutoring, small group instruction, remediation or extension teaching, through whole class instruction.
Supervised	When a candidate is completing clinical practice and for teachers, the candidate is Clinical	responsible for whole class instruction. There are expectations for how frequently the Practice	candidate must be supervised by the program supervisor.
	A candidate leaves the educator preparation program on his or her own volition and the Voluntary	program has not counseled the candidate out. This may be due to a variety of reasons
Leave	such as the candidate decided the program is not appropriate for them, is moving out of the area, or other reason.
	tile drea, or other reason.
